MISSOULA--

The University of Montana School of Education will offer four courses, each carrying two graduate credits during the 1979 summer session.

"Developments in Administration in the 70's" (Educ 595, Section 4) will be taught by Dr. Fenwick English during the Pre-Session (June 11-15). This course will present an overview of topics such as legislation which affects school administrators, professional training of administrators and the leadership role of the American Association of School Administrators (AASA). Dr. English is associate director of AASA, Washington, D.C.

"Leadership Stress" (Educ 594, Section 4) will be taught by Patricia Polignano, during a special session (July 23-27). The course will emphasize survival in a stress producing environment. Polignano is a consultant to the Montgomery, MD., public schools.

"Comparative Education" (Educ 561) will be taught by Dr. Gordon Parsons during a special session (July 18-August 10). Dr. Parsons is from the Office of Overseas Schools, U.S. Department of State, Washington, D.C.

"Humanistic Education" (Educ 594) will be taught by Dr. Arthur Combs during another special session (June 25-29). This one-week course will review the humanistic education movement of the 70's. Dr. Combs, Greeley, Colo., an education author and consultant, will emphasize the place of humanistic curriculum and supervision.

Bulletins and applications may be obtained from the Center for Continuing Education and Summer Programs, Main Hall 107, University of Montana, Missoula, MT 59812 (406-243-2900). Registration forms may be picked up in the Treasure State Dining Room on the ground floor of the Lodge beginning Monday, June 18, for all courses.
